

Couldn't We?

music & lyrics by Kim Banffy

Hitched my boat up to your star, thinkin' we could travel far, adventuring.

And maybe we could cling together when we struck inclement weather,
Couldn't we?

The days flew by, the sailing plain,

Sun was warm and in the main we laughed out loud.

And maybe we could cling together when we struck inclement weather,
Couldn't we?

Wind grew stronger, waves were rough,

You were cheerful, full of bluff,

Perhaps bravado.

And I though we would cling together when we struck inclement weather, Wouldn't we?

Storm clouds began to gather,

You loosed the rope and lost the tether,

Shouting 'Everyone for herself!'

Sun's back out, the day is fine,

Even though you cut that line you're smiling there.

But no, I'm not okay.

Something broke that day.

You can go on playing make-believe,

It'll never offer a reprieve;

It's gone forever.

2014 All rights reserved. Unauthorized reproduction, rental, public performance and broadcasting of this record without prior permission of the copyright owner prohibited. Proudly independently produced. All artwork by Kim Banffy.